About the Committee:

The Warrior Support Committee provides comprehensive assistance to veterans of the United States Armed Forces, with particular emphasis on veterans with training and experience in or aspirations for technical-related (STEM) professions. This SAME GKC committee prides itself as leading the way in this national initiative with established relationships with area installations – Fort Riley and Fort Leavenworth and Whiteman Air Force Base – as well as receiving growing support from SAME headquarters.

The committee conducts quarterly panels with former military members at area and national installations to discuss what active duty military can expect during their shift to civilian life and who they can turn to for assistance. The GKC committee has been a proactive leader in SAME, sharing lessons learned, and providing training to other posts across the country in how to provide these resources in their communities.

In years past, committee members also have helped organize Post members who are interested in participating in other veteran support organizations such as Wounded Warriors, Warriors Assent and U.S. Army Warriors Transition Command.
