CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION COMMEMORATING 100 YEARS

1920: A Society is Born

SAME grew from our nation's experiences in World War I when thousands of civilian engineers were called to duty to serve in uniform. Industry and military leaders vowed to capitalize on the technical lessons and camaraderie shared during their battlefield experiences, and created an organization through which the national engineering community that could ensure our nation is prepared and ready to meeting civilian and military needs.

Leading Collaboration Today

SAME now boasts a premier program of national, regional and local conferences, workshops, symposiums, and professional development and networking opportunities. SAME's membership comprises nearly 30,000 professionals representing the uniformed services as well as numerous state, local, and federal government agencies, nonprofit associations, academic institutions, and private sector firms—all working to guide the future of the A/E/C profession and its contributions to the protection of our nation.

The Society's mission is to lead collaborative efforts to identify and resolve national security infrastructure-related challenges, unite public and private sector individuals and organizations from across the A/E/C industry, environmental and facility management, cyber security, project planning, contracting and acquisition, and related disciplines in support of national security.

Locally, the SAME Guam Post is more active than ever, hosting monthly General Membership Meetings, Industry Forums; supporting a field chapter in the Philippines and a student chapter at the University of Guam; annually sponsoring about $30K in engineering/architecture scholarships; hosting a local STEM Camp and Veteran events.
