Bio:

He is involved in many organizations that are dedicated to the advancement of aviation and related industries. He recently served on the Board of Directors for Airports Consultants Council and has also served on the Board of Directors for Airports Council International-North America.

As a New Orleans native, he began his aviation career at the Louis Armstrong New Orleans International Airport before going on to lead and transform the San Antonio and St. Louis Airports. During his tenure at San Antonio International Airport, he managed the makeover of the airport's concession program and facility renovations that resulted in prestigious awards from Airport Revenue News for the best concession program for a small airport and a first place tie in J.D. Power and Associates Global Airport Satisfaction Index Study. While in St. Louis, Dolliole lured new air service to the city and oversaw a substantial $1.1 billion airfield improvement and runway construction project. Once again back at the helm of Armstrong International, he plans to continue effectively managing operational, organizational, and airport development initiatives.

About the Airport:

The New Orleans International Airport is the primary commercial airport in the State of Louisiana, serving over 80 percent of all passengers who fly into the State. The Airport is owned by the City of New Orleans. The New Orleans Aviation Board (NOAB), an unattached board of the City of New Orleans, oversees the administration, operation, and maintenance of Armstrong International. The Airport has 14 airlines providing service to 55 non-stop destinations, including six international destinations. A new, world-class terminal complex is currently under construction and will be complete by February 2019.
